Ma. Ronerrs, millwright at the La Belle Mill, while going home Monday night, struck his head against one of the B. & O. cars on Thirty-second street, and was Badly injured.

Coal Complications.—The coal miners' troubles have been practically settled in some of the mines by various means. Some of the owners have acceded to the terms demanded, and others have made other arrangements with their men. At Kimberly's bank things have nearly resumed their normal condition, and vesterday he was selling coal and filling his contracts as usual, with ten or eleven men at work. He says that of the five men who went out three of them came back and wanted tog to be work sgain, but he refused to allow them.

McGinley & McCormick's men are still tout.

Johnstown on the third Tuesday in October, 1880;

We dilling his orders as usual.

Zesterday afternoon we visited the extensive coal works of Kasley & Brooks, near the Whittaker iron works in East Wheeling. Through the courtesy of Mr. David Brooks we were taken into the bank some one thousand five hundred yards, and shown the workings, and various methods of mining. This is the largest, hank we have, employs more men and has larger contracts than any of the others, furnishing about 2,000 bushels a day to the Whittaker iron works alone. This bank is we have, employs more men and has larger contracts than any of the others, furnishing about 2,000 bushels a day to the Whittaker iron works alone. This bank is well ventilated and is a marvel of contracts, he said, "None, we have filled our contracts, he said, "None, we have filled our contracts and are now selling coal, We have fourteen men at work to-day and the uproarce of Alvin Joslin, and the up

Synod convened, and was opened with prayer by Rev. C. C. B. Duncan. f the Women's Committee on Home "Pap" FREEZE, who was reported miss-ing yesterday, has turned up all right Missions, appointed by the Synod of Pittsburgh in 1878. This report was ap proved by a unanimous vote, and is as follows:

In following up the record of what has been done for Home Missions in the past by the Christian women of the Synod, your Committee finds that the cause has been most faithfully and affectionately upbeld for many years. There are Women's Home Mission Societies within our bounds dating back a half century or more, whose work has been steadily carried forward all this time with an investus ried forward all this time with an impetus which sge has rather increased than din-inished. Their wise and loving ministries iniside. Their was and loving ministres to the pressing needs of the church in the house have enable the missionary to minister more steadily and successfully to the church in the wilderness than he could ever have done without them. The idea acter more steady and accessing to the church in the wilderness than he cauld ever have done without them. The ides which makes it a part of woman's work to preach the Gospel has given not only dignity, but vitality to all their efforts, and the preparation of boxes as well as the maintenance of schools have always been recognized as essential means to the same great end. More than forty societies are enrolled within the Synod. Since the opening of new missions in the far West and the employment of lady teachers in home mission schools, contributions to these objects have been frequent. This has also led to a greater desire for information concerning these exsire for information concerning these ex-panding fields and the best methods of organizing for more extended work.

The fact that inquiries about money for home missions are constantly brought to the various Foreign Missionary Presbyterial Societies may serve to show the need of similar centers for supplying need of similar centers for supplying home mission intelligence and counsel. From the experience gained during the first year of effort, your committee is con-vinced of the need of stated meetings throughout the Synod, and would there-fore suggest an increase of numbers by the appointment of two or more ladies from each Presbytery.

The tobacco resolution, introduced by Rev. Dr. Jennings, was discussed -t length.
Rev. S. J. Wilson, D. D., LL.D., opposed the resolution because it was not sufficiently radical. It was aimed at the poor beneficiaries only; it should be so formed as to reach all the tobacco users under our jurisdiction. None advocated tobacco cars on Thirty-second street, and was badly injured.
